CLASS HISTORY

There are those that say the class of '61 was a great class, and there are those realists who don't wish to be popular. We, the class historians, prefer to be popular. The class of '61 was a great class.

"When," as they are prone to say in yearbooks, "the last golden rays of our school days fall prey to the great curtain of graduation," it behooves the class historian to earn their keep; they must write the class history. This year's historians, (a closely knit group by the way), having slaved under a tyrannical yearbook editor, Richard Gold, have produced a history unique in that it shares with no other, one shining distinction. It is the worst class history ever written.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

Fresh out of Junior High we entered the high school, eyes wide, mouths agape . . . yearning. Many a heart fluttered, many an ambition was born as we passed the mighty Seniors in the corridors. And we yearned to be Seniors, to have fun, to be heroes, and to be like Sadaway and Ellis.

Meanwhile, we elected class officers. Robert Hall was elected President along with Ted Lynch: Vice-President, Carol Famiglietti: Secretary, and Susan Yates: Treasurer.

Our first year in high school was successful. The athletic teams did well, and there were sophomores starting on many of the varsity teams (Rob Hall).

That was the year we were introduced to the dues system. Many was the delight on getting the joyous word from the office, "You have been made your home room treasurer." Ecstasy!

We held our first dance. Wayne Parker and his band were there, practically free of charge, doing a much appreciated favor for our class. The dance was a social and financial success. It marked the coming of an all too shortlived period of solvency in our class treasury.

Sophomore year can be remembered for many things: reading the House of Seven Gables, hearing for the first time those golden words—"May I have your attention for the moment, please?", getting our first taste of those two strange fruits—X period and study, Mr. Hodges, the thrill of one's first detention slip, being taken full advantage of by the Seniors . . . but most of all, our innocence.

To end our Sophomore year we celebrated in two ways; (1) a party (2) a trip to Nantasket. High point of the party was the marriage ceremony in which Dave Samsury and Elaine Procaccini took the vows. High point of the class trip was the rain. But it was nice having Paragon Park to ourselves. Few classes have known that joy! Few classes have known the thrill of a soaked seat on the Wild Mouse. We'll never forget the girls swimming and the boys feeding dimes into the binoculars.

All in all, it was a good year. It was hard work and fun, and it was a part of our stay at Walpole High that we shall never forget.

JUNIOR YEAR

Our Junior year started off fast and got faster. Elections were held in which Ted Lynch became Vice-President, Carol Famiglietti: Secretary, and Donna Silvi: Treasurer. Rob Hall and Larry Hogan tied for President. They thought about having shifts, but then decided against it and had a re-vote instead. Larry Hogan became President.

It was a great day for sports. Games were won and all that sort of thing. The hockey and basketball teams produced two of the finest seasons in the history of the school. The school won the all-sports trophy for the best athletic season in the Bay State League.

By this time we knew our way around the campus. Everybody knew that 216 was on the second floor. Most of us knew how to get late slips fixed. We were quickly shedding our innocence.

The work was hard except if you lived near Freddy Thorn or Judy Coburn. And there were disciplines that trained both mind and body, like Chemistry Lab. Remember Ferney's delicatessen up back and those little explosions that Bill Derickson made around the school. Stout fellow.

And the Junior Prom. A blast except the potatoes were cold. Remember? Remember what a great usher Dom Silvi made?

The Junior dance was a nice affair, too. Remember the elimination dances that were held to find the most dishonest couple in the school.

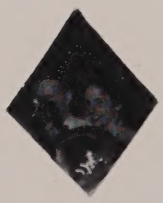
And we had Junior midyears—"Oh well, so I'll get an A on the finals. I'll get my C." And the Iowa tests—who was the kid that got in the 99th percentile by just filling in the "D's?"

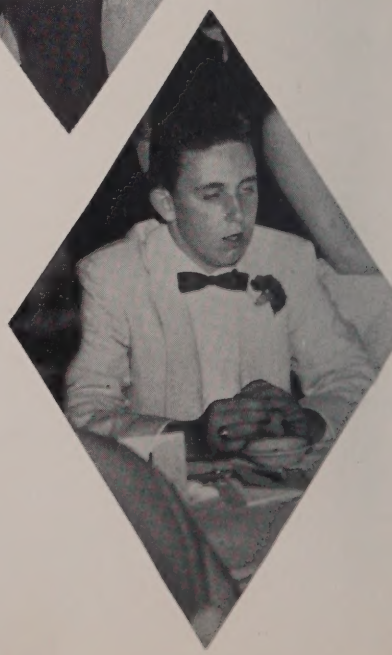
Of course, there was the class trip that was once again highlighted by, as our intercom system is prone to say, "inclement weather." But Lake Canoppee was a lot of fun. Remember that one beautiful turn on the roller coaster and losing your shirt on the pin ball machines. Remember the roller skating afterwards and the only way to stop. "Look out!"

Junior year was a great year. The senior class was a good bunch and they got along well with our class. (Translation: they liked the junior girls.)

The year ended with an impressive graduation ceremony for the seniors in which Joe O'Neill handed over the reins to Larry Hogan. Remember the pleased look on Larry's face. Oh yes, and did you catch a glimpse of Carol Famiglietti that day? She had the weirdest expression on her face. One would have thought she was planning something.

"Till We Meet Again"





SENIOR YEAR

P.S. We held our elections. Famiglietti vs. Hogan. Remember the claws and how the class became politically divided? Carol had the football team behind her. Larry had Cindy. Carol had feminine prejudice behind her. Larry had Cindy. And Larry saying, "May the best man win." When the dust had cleared, when the votes were in, do you remember the results? Famiglietti had the votes. Larry had Cindy. Cindy had loyalty (wait till hockey)!!

But all kidding aside, the class knew they were fortunate to have the choice between two such fine candidates. Oh yes, Ted Lynch got Vice-President again (good lad, that Ted), Joanne Monez—Secretary, and Donna Silvi—Treaurer.

Anyway, that was the beginning of a fine and eventful Senior year. Our football team was the first in the school's history to beat Natick. Charlie Pike set a Walpole course record in Cross Country, averaged twenty points in basketball, and forced a certain freshman, from Colgate, to seriously contemplate suicide. John Dodge was unanimously elected by his classmates as the tallest boy in the class—a flushing victory for John. Mr. Riley made attempts at improving the moral condition of the class. Mr. O'Donnell broke Mr. Goodrich's old detention giving record.

The year can best be remembered as the year that the girls were left with no upperclassmen.

Senior year was a year of fun, work, and a need for time. So many things going on—and so many blasts to be had.

* * * * * * * * * *

When you look back on high school, you see that we did a lot of silly things and a lot of just plain stupid things. You see that we did a lot of work. But most of all you remember the fun.

There are many memories that go with graduation. And there is the knowledge that this class will never be together again. We'll have reunions, sure. But it won't be the same. It was fun the way it was, but it will never be like that again.

Time changes. It's a sad fact that grows sadder with the years. Some night when you're alone, think about it. Think about that time at Youth Center when you were a Sophomore. You'll feel a kind of melancholy that you'll never forget.

Our high school days are over, but we have one consolation: memories such as these we will cherish forever.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS

RETURN TO VAUDEVILLE

It's June 14, 1971, as we turn on our TV sets to find the cameras focused on the exterior of the Topper Playhouse with WHS's famous announcer, Ted Lynch. Ted is greeting numerous celebrities arriving for the premiere of the TV show, The Return of Vaudeville, which is a summer replacement for Peter loves Barbara starring Peter Carroll and Barbara Vietz. This show was taken off the air by Caroline Famiglietti, the head of the network, at the request of several of the top executives.

Among the notables now arriving are Judi Coburn and Ricky Gold, the creators of the show, along with Producer Fred Thorn, Director John Dodge, Makeup Artist Marcia Peterson, and Music Directors Tina Wold and Ann Brundige. Next to be greeted are two of the more well known couples about town, namely Marty Berrum and Lindy Johnson along with Mike Fitzgerald and Lois Montecalvo who arrive in a white Cadillac limousine chauffeured by Bruce Swanson. In the background we can hear Elaine Procaccini saying, "Oh, Isn't that a nice car!" Representatives from the entertainment world are Don Rowe, Dave Samsury, and Pete Maguire, members of a singing group known as the Three Jolly Coachmen. Paul Benson, Dick Nethercote, and Bob Mills are also present as representatives of the Boston Bruins. Members of two newspapers are now arriving. They are gossip columnists Lorraine Lori and Susan Kennedy along with censors Charlie Pike and Franny Gately and press photographer Louise Richardson. Also greeted is Kenny Farris, a big wheel about town. Ted's voice is drowned out by the roar of engines as Brian Hamilton, Joe Radzwill, Leo Picard, John Baily, and Sally Andrews go dragging up Broadway with Sally in the lead by a wide margin. Just as we start to enter the theater, Donna Silvi rushes up—soaking wet. It seems that she was caught in a sudden shower on the way to the theater.

We have been invited backstage by the manager of the theater, Jim Kennedy. We first notice the technicians Charlie Valentine, Ralph Brescia, and John Fisher who are hard at work checking for loose connections. Ruth Mitchell, Ellen Cullinane, June Grysell, David Russetti, and Verna Johnson are doing some last minute work on the scenery.

Down in the dressing room the chorus line consisting of Bev Brown, Lorretta Ferrone, Ros Hawkes, Kathy Howard, Mary Hawkins, Maura Turco,

Sue Yates, Bones Michenzie, Jackie Maguire, Cindy Newell, and Bev Harrison is rehearsing its racy French number. Milton Florest is delivering flowers to the lovely chorus girls. Over in the makeup room, Linda Fisher and Linda Stoddard, in charge of eye makeup, are supervising the curling of Larry Giandomenico's and Ann Kambour's eyelashes and Roberta Daniel is helping actress Patty Cashman cover her freckles.

We are ushered to our seats by head usher Dickie Glebus and his assistants, Dave Rooney and Joe Chitanni, because the show is about to start. Since the house lights are still on we notice a few more celebrities in the audience. Among them are Emidio Ferri, an Italian wine merchant, Warren Eisner, the present champion roller skater, Marilyn Parsons, currently appearing in the Broadway smash hit show "Hot Ice," Hollywood's latest sensation, Fred Giampetro, and also Joanne Monez, the national president of Junior Achievement. The houselights go out and our MC for the evening, Larry Hogan, is introduced by Billie Dowdie.

The first act is a soft shoe routine done by Paul Grecho, John Feeny, Bob Stanley, Douglas Koch, Alan Ryan, and John Turco under the direction of Henry Scanzio. After a brief round of applause, Larry introduces a musical trio of Charlie Buckman with Tony and Louis Pagnotti playing "Lady of Italy."

This act is interrupted by a fight in the audience between Tony Utorka and Scott Kehoe which is stopped by Franny Murphy, an executive of ABC-TV. Next Mark Johnson and Bill Stewart render a version of "Anchors Away." The final act of this part of the show consists of Nancy and Joyce Boyden along with Mary and Marian O'Dell singing "Sisters."

The first portion of "Back to Vaudeville" was sponsored by the James Hedbor Charm School which is represented by two of the school's instructors, Carol Ford and Pat Perry. With the houselights on again we cannot help but notice the entrance of Dianne Deforest who is wearing an Anita Trumpolt original which certainly enhances her figure. We also see Jean Divirgilio who runs up to the doorman, Bruce Leon, and tells him that Joan Clifford, Cindy Percy, Bunny Crosby, Carol Carlson, and Shirley Smith are smoking in the basement.

The lights go out for the start of the second portion and the first act is a barbershop quartet made up of Dale Lockhart, Tommy Ryan, Dick Medvaskas, and Ralph Clifford singing "Who Wears Crew Cuts?" The second act is a ballet with Elvi Saloma, Betty Ann Hazlett, Peter Williams, and Ronald Sunburg who pirouette gracefully about the stage. Midway through the act we hear loud giggling from Carol Norcross and Donna Donahue who are quickly silenced by Walter Fisher. Next to perform are Mary Ellen Koch, Thomas Sylvia, and Joe Dennehy in their internationally famous stilt act. As this final act of the second part of the show comes to a close, the house lights go on, and it is time for intermission.

Entering the lobby we notice John Connoly, Jim Ferney, Donald Boynton, and Sandra La Civita rushing across the street to the Old Howard Johnson's where Wayne Lestan, Rene Allaire, Danny Jennings, and Judy McGrath are busily dishing out ice cream. It is brought to our attention that some people are missing. Emily Ellis had to attend her sister-in-law's wedding. Jane Cherella stayed home to watch Zorro. Mary Lou Platt and Marilyn Lawson are working at their candy store. Lorraine MacDonald, Eileen Harrington, and Jack Folan are in the hospital under the care of Patty Dale and Laura Lindblom. Paula Smith stayed home to watch TV, and Kenny Arthur had to miss the show because he was posing for Mad Magazine.

Just as we are returning to our seats for the final portion, George Bailey, Bill DeBerto, Frank Chiasson, Harry Groden, Alexander Chase, Marcia Joseph, and Gail Briggs arrive in one of Mike Arbachuck's new Renault Taxis. Also arriving late are Bill Guisti, Dom Silvi, Joe Zeoli, and George Reed who were caught in a traffic jam.

Just as we are seated again, Richard Coyne and Penny Ratigan rush out of the theater on their way to the mint. We learn that the final portion is sponsored by NoDoz pills which are made by the Dave Johnson and Chris Swanson Health Clinics Inc. The commercial is being done by Jean Ackerman and Janet Brigham. Leroy Page, Bob Barret, Coralee Gilmore, and Sydney Green start this part off with a pantomime act. They are followed by John Ferney, Margie Gregg, and Jerry Hagen who do a comedy routine which is spoiled because the lights are a little off color.

The final act of the evening is a trio consisting of Betty Silvi, Verna Johnson, and Ann Marie Spillane who sing "That Old Gang of Mine."

As the theater slowly empties, Stanley Vladyka and his crew of Dick Swanbeck, Brad Vozella, Jim Jamison, Dick Swanson, and Dave Buttons begin to take down the props and clean up the theater. Getting our coats from Joanne Ventham and Shirley Pooler at the check room, we notice Dick Stewart and Russ Olsson hurrying home to rest for their morning golf match.

Outside the theater we talk to Kenny Willis who assures us of a good revue in his newspaper. Cathy Delaney, Don Lans, and Bob Perkins had no comment on the show. The Executive-Director, George Boyce, shows us a note that Linda Bechunas had just given him. It is from Caroline Famiglietti who informs him that Larry Hogan's contract has run out and that she plans to take over the show.

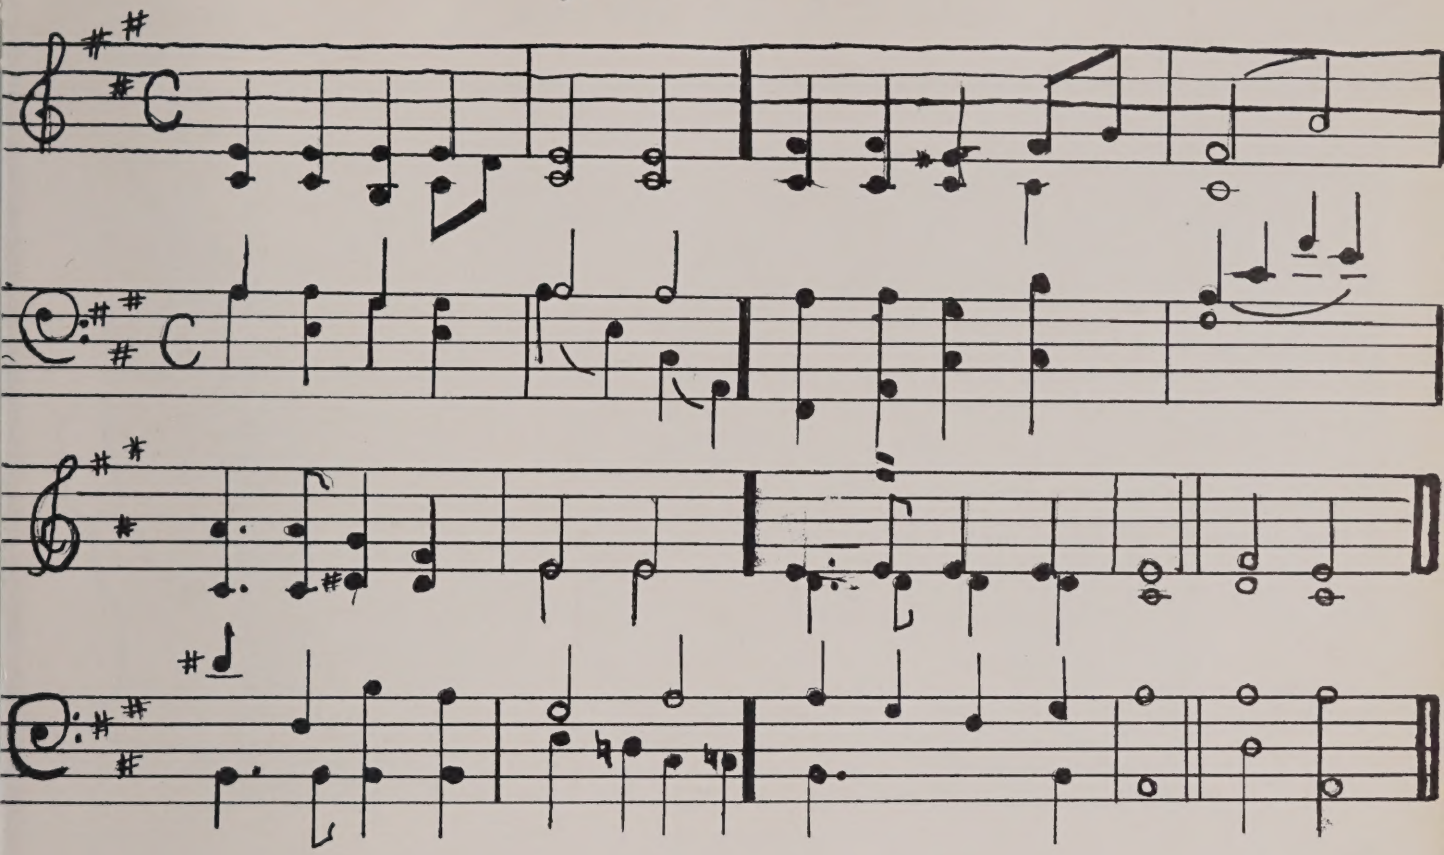
Farewell



Verse One.
Now that school is over
And we sadly part,
Fondest memories linger
Deep within our heart.

Verse Two.
Now we near the ending
Of our high school days,
Leaving friends and teachers
Parting words of praise.

Verse Three.
When we leave our high school,
Going separate ways,
We will honor Walpole
Throughout all our days.

Verse Four.
As we pass these portals,
And life's trials we face,
Help us, God, to prosper
And stay within Thy grace.

CLASS OFFICERS

For the most part, our Sophomore year was spent getting acquainted with the High School and with each other. The class officers that we elected in the middle of the year were as follows: President—John Sanzi; Vice-President—Richard Eklund; Secretary—Susan Johnson; and Treasurer—Faith Turco. Our Sophomore Dance consisted of a record hop with entertainment, and we ended the year with a very enjoyable class trip to Nantasket.

Now we are in our Junior year and we are much more confident. We elected our officers at the beginning of the year and we think that we gave one of the best Junior dances at Walpole High, adding to our treasury for our upcoming prom and class trip. Soon we will be Seniors but, until then, we will be content to be known as the Class of '62.

—Alice Brady, Class Secretary

Class of '63

In November of 1960, our sophomore class held its election of the officers to represent the class this year. The following students were elected: President—John Norwell, Vice-President—Anthony Platukis, Secretary—Beverly Michenzie, and Treasurer—John Yonker.

In September of 1960, the Walpole High School football season opened. Many of our sophomore boys were included on the varsity team, and they fulfilled all the expectations expressed by Coach Jordan. Our fellow classmates represented themselves equally as well on both our lively hockey and basketball teams.

On March 3 of 1961, the Sophomore class had its first dance, "The Golden Age of '63," which was elegantly enhanced by the gorgeous gold and blue decorations which lined the walls of our gym. The dance was widely supported and clearly showed the achievements possible by our Sophomore Class.

Although our record was not the most distinguished, our Blue Devil grid squad produced some of the best talent for future seasons that Walpole has ever seen. Through hard work and sheer determination, we have trained a solid line and a fleet backfield to cope with next year's foes. As seniors we feel that we have played our role well; that of rebuilding the Hilltop football team into a solid unit.

The 1960-1961 Blue Devil Hoop Squad produced a modestly successful season. The only team to defeat League Champions Needham, we piled up a total of 1,047 points to nail down fourth place in Bay State League standings.

Though we failed to enter the Tech Tournament this year, we feel that our winning season proved that basketball is here to stay.

Returning the championship to Walpole High, this year's hockey team did a superb job. The forward line of Frances Gately (Capt.), Marilyn Parsons, Sally Andrews, Cindy Newell, and Marge Gregg drove 17 goals and 2 goals were scored against our defense of Betty Ann Hazlett, Lois Monteclavo, Elvi Saloma, Laura Lindblom, and Lorraine McDonald. This fine record, under our new coach Miss Farina, resulted in an undefeated season of 7 games won and one tied.

The J.V.'s had a fairly successful season, winning 4 games, losing 3, and tying 1. The senior forwards were Dianne DeForest (Capt.), Linda Fisher, Caroline Famiglietti and the senior defensemen were Mary Lou Platt, and Joanne Monez.
